The Colour of slate:

Is determined by the chemical and mineralogical composition of the slate being quarried. Since these factors differ in various localities, it is possible to obtain slates in a variety of colours and shades.

All Slates will weather to a degree and after time will show a surface difference in the Colour tones.

When the change is slight, the Colour is classified as permanent or "unfading". If the final results are more evident, the colours are classified as weathering or fading.

Therefore Roofslates.com will not Cover or Guarantee against colour change or fading of any Slate.
